Response: The article was about a tragic family fire that killed four children and their two grandparents in the grandparent's mansion in Maryland. The major point I got from the article was that life is fragile and you should cherish every day with your love ones. I can't necessarily say that I liked the article because it was very sad. All the children were 8 years old or younger and it is just very sad that they died so young. I did not have any difficulty reading this post; it flowed nicely and was easy to get through. However, I can't help but wonder if the house had been smaller, would the fire not have spread as fast and kill the family? Word Count: 121

Response: This article was about all types of zoo animals at the Smithsonian National Zoo in Washington, who were creating art and playing music. The main idea was that just like humans, animals need to be enlightened too. I loved this article. It warmed my heart and put me in a great mood. This article wasn't difficult to read; it had lots of quotes from the zoo workers. It was fairly easy to read. Now I just want to see if like to see my mom's dog would paint! Word Count: 88

Response: This article was about how a man in Alabama was cited for eating a cheese burger while driving down the road. The main idea was should he be charged because he didn't cause an accident and still had one hand on the wheel? So was he really so distracted that ne needed to be ticketed? I liked this article because it was very interesting and caught my eye because I tend to eat grapes or granola bars while driving. However, I don't think it was so serious that he needed to be ticketed; it is not like he was swerving all over the road. I didn't have any difficulty reading this article; it was pretty easy. I will definitely have to be careful while driving now! Word Count: 126
